“Edwin” The Osprey is “Tagged”

Rob Bierregaard, a Distinguished Visiting Professor in the Department of Biology, University of North Carolina, Charlotte, was invited by the Museum to come to Fishers Island on May 11, 2013, to “tag” an osprey with a satellite transmitter. Rob was specifically interested in tagging a male osprey to determine over time the routes taken and sites visited by the bird while it foraged for fish. We chose the occupied osprey nest adjacent to Beach Pond—located at the southern end of Middle Farms Flats—because that platform was low enough to be accessible by ladder.

Rob and a small group of volunteer helpers arrived at the nest shortly after 11 AM and verified that the female was on the nest, incubating her eggs. We waited at a distance until we saw the male osprey—named “Edwin” in honor of the late Museum Curator and FI School teacher Ed Horning—deliver a fish to his mate. She took the fish off to eat, and Edwin settled down in the intermittent rain to take a turn at keeping the eggs warm. After about 20 minutes, the female had finished her lunch and was back on the eggs.

We then decided it was time to set the trap. As we approached the nest the female flushed and vigorously and vociferously let us know what she thought about our proximity to her clutch of eggs. The male, who had just left the nest, was conspicuous in his absence. The slightly camouflaged trap, which resembles the sort of hand-made wire hat one would wear to a H.O.G. tournament, had flat-rims with a protruding rectangular mid-section that “sat” over the eggs so they wouldn’t get damaged during the trapping. Rob placed the three eggs found in the nest within a plastic baggy to further protect them from exposure during the trapping. The female soon came back to the nest, landed on the platform edge, and tried to sit on her eggs. (The eggs are the “lures” in this process.) Her toes quickly got caught up in the fish-line “nooses” that cover the top of the wire trap. She was subsequently retrieved by Rob, hooded, bagged, and banded. During this period the female was kept quietly and safely by the car some distance away from the nest, while the waiting game began.

After about a half an hour, Edwin decided to return. (He was not the most attentive or protective male osprey that Rob has tagged.) The process then repeated itself after he landed on the nest and got his toes tangled in the trap’s nooses. The female was released soon after Edwin was captured, but only after the baggy had been removed from the eggs and the trap had been removed from the platform. In Edwin’s case, in addition to banding, a one-ounce, solar-powered transmitter was strapped to his back during a 30+ minute “operation” that was quite elaborate and involved a good deal of precise stitching to attach the cross-banded straps to each other. We were all quite impressed with Rob Bierregaard’s ingenious trapping method and his bird-handling skills. He is a consummate professional, and it was an honor to watch him in action.

The Museum has already received the first transmissions from “Edwin’s” transmitter and they reveal that he has been flying over to Connecticut to hunt for fish, reaching points as far west as East Lyme! We are working with Rob to coordinate on how best to share the data with everyone. After that has been worked out, we’ll all be able to follow Edwin on his rounds via Google Earth. We also should be able to determine where he winters.

The Museum appreciates the volunteer help we received in the field from JR Edwards, Jeff, Catherine and Benjamin Edwards, John Ski, Hank Golet, Ken Edwards, and Nick Spofford. Special thanks to the Utility Co. for their ongoing support of “Team Osprey” and to the Spofford Foundation for enabling this fantastic project. We are also most appreciative of the ongoing research that Richard O. “Rob” Bierregaard, Jr. conducts involving ospreys and other raptors and hope that Edwin contributes useful data to his efforts. Many thanks to all involved!

Obituaries:

Nancy Spofford Yerkes, of NYC and Fishers Island, died peacefully January 14, 2013. She was the beloved wife of the late Harry Estile Yerkes III, and is survived by her children Elizabeth Tyson Yerkes, Harry Estile Yerkes IV, Nathalie Yerkes George and 12 grandchildren. Nancy was predeceased by her son, J. Nicholas Yerkes.

After graduation from The Chapin School and Vassar College, where she composed music and sang with acapella groups, Nancy traveled and painted the cities and landscapes of post-World War II Europe that she encountered. On her return to New York, Nancy worked briefly for David Ogilvy.

Continuing her studies at the Art Students League, Nancy fine-tuned her watercolor and drawing technique. With artist friends, she often toted a camp stool, watercolor block and brushes to paint the docks, brownstones, and lesser-known neighborhoods of Manhattan and Brooklyn.

After Nancy and Harry married and settled into their Carnegie Hill apartment, Nancy maintained painting studios on Fishers Island and in the city. The couple continued to sing with the Blue Hill Troupe, play tennis, and sunbathe with abandon on the Island. Nancy played golf into her 60s, always bringing along a sketchbook and camera. Nancy’s wit, humor, and joy for life pervaded her artwork, her sartorial sensibility, and her humanity.

A retrospective show of her paintings will be held July 7 to 14, 2013 at the Fishers Island Community Center.

Mary Andrews Lewis Wood, 90, of West Hartford and Fishers Island, NY, beloved widow of William H. Wood Jr., to whom she was married for 62 years, passed away Saturday, April 27th.

Born in Hartford, March 22nd, 1923, daughter of the late Richard B. and Dorothy (White) Lewis Sr., she was raised in Hartford and summered in Madison, CT.

Mary was a graduate of The Masters School in Dobbs Ferry, NY and attended Smith College in Northampton, MA. She was the granddaughter of Robert Lewis, co-founder of Harvey & Lewis Opticians. Mary was a member of the Colonial Dames and the Connecticut Valley Garden Club; she also volunteered at Gray Lodge in Hartford. She loved spending time on Fishers Island and was a founder of the F.I. Conservancy. An enthusiastic bridge player, she also enjoyed golf and tennis.

Mary truly relished her family and is survived by her three children: Nancy Andrews Wood of New Britain, William H. Wood III of Avon, and Richard Lewis Wood of Fishers Island, NY; and several nieces and nephews.

She is predeceased by her brother, Richard B. Lewis, Jr. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Trinity Episcopal Church, 120 Sigourney St., Hartford, CT 06105 or to Fishers Island Conservancy, P.O. Box 553, Fishers Island, NY 06390. Arrangements are being handled by The Ahern Funeral Homes, Inc., www.ahernfuneralhome.com.

Fishers Island School:

Thanks to the many talents of our students and the high expectations held by their teachers and advisors, the arts are alive and flourishing this spring at Fishers Island School. We appreciate that so many island community members attended our recent art show, concert, and dramatic performance of You Can't Take It With You. There is nothing more motivating to young people than knowing that they will be performing to a live audience. Thank you for ensuring we had no empty seats at all events.

Speaking of audience, I enjoyed hearing many enthusiastic peals of laughter from one particular section of seats. With a sparkle in her eye, Mary Ski explained it to me during intermission. Come to find out, both Harry Parker, and Gil Zirkel who unknowingly sat one behind the other, each had roles in the same production many, many (I'd better stop here) years ago when each of them were attending their separate high schools. To the delight of those around them, they each incredibly still knew their lines and were quietly reciting them! One of the gentlemen even confessed that he had played the female lead in his all-boys' school. Two of our student actors would have been relieved had they known that they had island understudies in the house!

It's been wonderful to hear Fishers Island community members' pride in our students' accomplishments in drama, visual arts and instrumental and choral music. The quality of our programs is also receiving external validation as just yesterday our band and chorus each came back with trophies from a tri-state competition, Music in the Parks! In March, work from several of our talented visual artists was displayed at the Mystic Arts Center.

At the heart of our school's core values is the belief that all students possess gifts and talents, and that it is our job to help our young people discover and advance them. We couldn't accomplish this without exceptionally dedicated and highly effective adults to guide and challenge our young people. Special thanks to music/drama teacher Chris Dollar, drama director Sara Rafferty, and art educator, Carrie Sawyer for their dedicated efforts and belief in every student they serve.

Your school principal and neighbor, Karen Goodwin

Other School Notes:

Congratulations to junior, Amber Ferguson, and senior, Katie McCarthy, for each earning second honors at the Connecticut State Science Fair. Amber's research centered on a hot air balloon's ability to fly based on shape and volume, and Katie studied the effect of high fructose corn syrup and blueberries on a rat's memory.

The Fishers Island School is now certified to conduct the online assessment required to obtain a New York State Driver's Permit. Year round and/or seasonal island residents who would like to schedule a time to take this assessment should contact Mary Beth Guimaraes at 631-788-7444 or mb.guimaraes@fischool.com.

Rick Wyman, the director of the U.S. Coast Guard Band, accepted an invitation from FIS music teacher, Chris Dollar, to be a guest conductor on April 15th with our middle/high school band. The students enjoyed working with the leader of one of the premiere service bands, and Mr. Wyman equally enjoyed the opportunity to come to Fishers Island to enrich our students' musical instruction. Our students were amazed the similarity of Mr. Wyman's style to that of their own music teacher!

Athletics Update:
This past month all Fishers Island students in grades 5 through 12 were challenged with the Presidential Physical Fitness Test. Normally only done in the fall, this year we added a spring test to measure improvement. In somewhat shocking results, 38 out of 41 students improved on their mile time. Tim Hoch and Robert Backhaus became the first Fishers Island students to break the five minute mark at 4:54 and 4:59 respectively. The largest improvements were seen by Charlie Snyder cutting off 3 minutes and Skylar Montague shaking off two minutes and fifty seconds. Way to go FI!

Fishers Island’s Once Preeminent Hermit: “Uncle Billy” Holland

A lengthy New York Times article, published on July 13, 1880, reviewed the new resort on Fishers Island. While the unidentified reporter appeared somewhat ambivalent about the place, calling it pleasant but “desolate in the first degree,” he appeared quite taken by a local character named “Uncle Billy” who became the focus of his piece. The man of interest was a full-fledged hermit who had resided on South Dumpling Island for many years, but was living on a small boat anchored off Fishers Island at the time the article was written. The hermit’s formal name was William Holland, but he was called “Uncle Billy” by all. The reporter described him thusly:

“Uncle Billy’ Holland is the most renowned of the inhabitants [of Fisher’s Island]. He is well known the length of the Sound and might be said to be the original of the famous ‘Lone Fisherman,’ as he is the exact representative of his prototype on the stage. Rather below the medium height, a face running wild with wrinkles and black with exposure, surrounded by a white ring of whiskers, and out of all, from under an old sou’wester, peer a pair of white eyes, the expression of which defies all description.”

The hermit had once been a successful seafarer, but “trouble” of some non-defined type had rattled his mind and caused him to retreat to unoccupied South Dumpling, just off Fishers Island’s north shore. Liked by all, “Uncle Billy” made his livelihood selling lobsters and taking small groups out to fish for blackfish in the surrounding waters. His one and only flaw was a major one: he exhibited the tendencies associated with acute paranoia. The reporter summarized the problem:  “His weakness is displayed principally in his fear of being poisoned, and if for any reason he takes a grudge against a man, that man is sure to be accused of trying to poison him; consequently, not a few of the inhabitants of the island are murderers in the eyes of the old hermit. On the little [South] Dumpling are the remains of two houses built by him, and destroyed by his own hands. ‘I had a fine place there,’ he said, as we stood over the ruins one day, ‘but that ‘ere keeper of the big Dumplin’ [North Dumpling Light] tried to poison me: what he did it for I can’t imagine… but he came over one day and put arsenic in the food; for 10 days I laid on the floor and didn’t move or eat a thing.’ ‘Wasn’t something else the matter with you, Uncle Billy?’ his visitor asked. ‘No-o-o; I proved it by the crows. After I got up I threw away the rest of the stuff, and the crows came and ate it up, and the next day here was a dead one and there was a dead one, and the whole Dumplin’ was full of dead crows. You see that proved it. Why, they even put poison on the roof, and I had to burn the whole thing down. I wouldn’t have anything to do with it.’ So it was he burned his two houses, a large net that he thought was poisoned, and a boat, and left the island. No better sailor or more cunning fisherman can be found than ‘Uncle Billy,’ and, as he says, the fish all seem to know him.”

The Hartford Weekly Times of March 31, 1887 provides details of the hermit’s demise: “‘Uncle Billy’ Holland, who is well known along the Sound from New London to New Haven was drowned at Fisher’s Island Monday night. He had gone to the island with two passengers, and probably missed his way and fell off the wharf. He formerly lived on a hummock in Fisher’s Island Sound, but believing that the well on the little sand heap had been poisoned he had latterly made his house in a little fishing boat that he owned. He had accumulated property.” At least it wasn’t poison.

May Gardening Tips from Melie

This winter, Cynnie Cook found a list of “Rabbit Resistant Perennials” from a gardening article, Leila Hadley Luce wrote for the Fishers Island Gazette. We both thought the list was worth reprinting in the Fog Horn. I will not guarantee it is “full proof” for I learned, years ago, while living in Bedford, NY, that the deer ate one plant on our property, while ignoring it on our neighbor’s and vice a versa. So, I hesitate to say anything is “full proof”, but a number of these plants have grown in my garden on Fishers Island without a bite from deer or rabbit!

DR. INGRAM IS CREDENTIALLED WITH THE FOLLOWING INSURANCE COMPANIES:

- BLUE CROSS / BLUE SHIELD  (CT Anthem & NY Empire, plus most EPOs and PPOs)
- AETNA
- MULTIPLAN  (includes some CIGNA plans)
- MEDICARE
- OXFORD  (Liberty and Freedom)
- UNITED HEALTHCARE
- UHC EMPIRE  (NYS employees)

PLEASE NOTE – patients with other insurances will be required to pay in full on the day of service. You will be given a detailed receipt to submit yourself for reimbursement from your insurance company. Patients with NO insurance will also be required to pay in full at the time of service. No exceptions.

INSURANCE INFORMATION: In order to bill your insurance, we MUST have a copy of your insurance card (both front and back) on file at our office. Please do not arrive for an appointment with only the name of your insurance company and your ID number, or in the case of Medicare, your SSN. ALL co-pays are due at the time of service. Failure to comply with these requirements will result in the patient being responsible for the cost of the entire visit.

TO SAVE TIME before you come into the office this summer, especially if you or a family member are a regular patient, or know you will be seeing the doctor, we urge you to log onto our IHP website, www.islandhealthproject.com and download our PATIENT REGISTRATION FORM. PLEASE fill it out and mail (PO Box 344) it to us in advance of your arrival OR bring it to the office when you arrive on the island. This will be a HUGE help to our office!
